About ECPF

Who are we?

The European Co-production Forum, helmed by France's top film & TV publication Ecran Total and Pascal Diot, head of the Venice Production Bridge, is an in-person 2-day networking event for Europe's film & TV industry decision-makers.

With support from some of Europe's leading industry organizations, such as Wallimages, Eurimages, Federation Entertainment...ECPF makes it possible for the industry's international professionals to network, interact, and secure their next long-lasting partnerships.

Following three successful editions, the European Co-production Forum is back for its 4th on-site in-person event at the Bozar building in Brussels, from April 5th to April 6th, 2023.

This unique industry event is the go-to space for you to find your next European production partner, financier, distributor, and more...

Our goal?

Our goal is to gather the international film and television community around a common desire for further collaborations and co-productions. The ECPF welcomes all attendees, from over 60 countries, in the hopes of facilitating key conversations and debates around the future of the international market and improving the current production system.

This year's edition

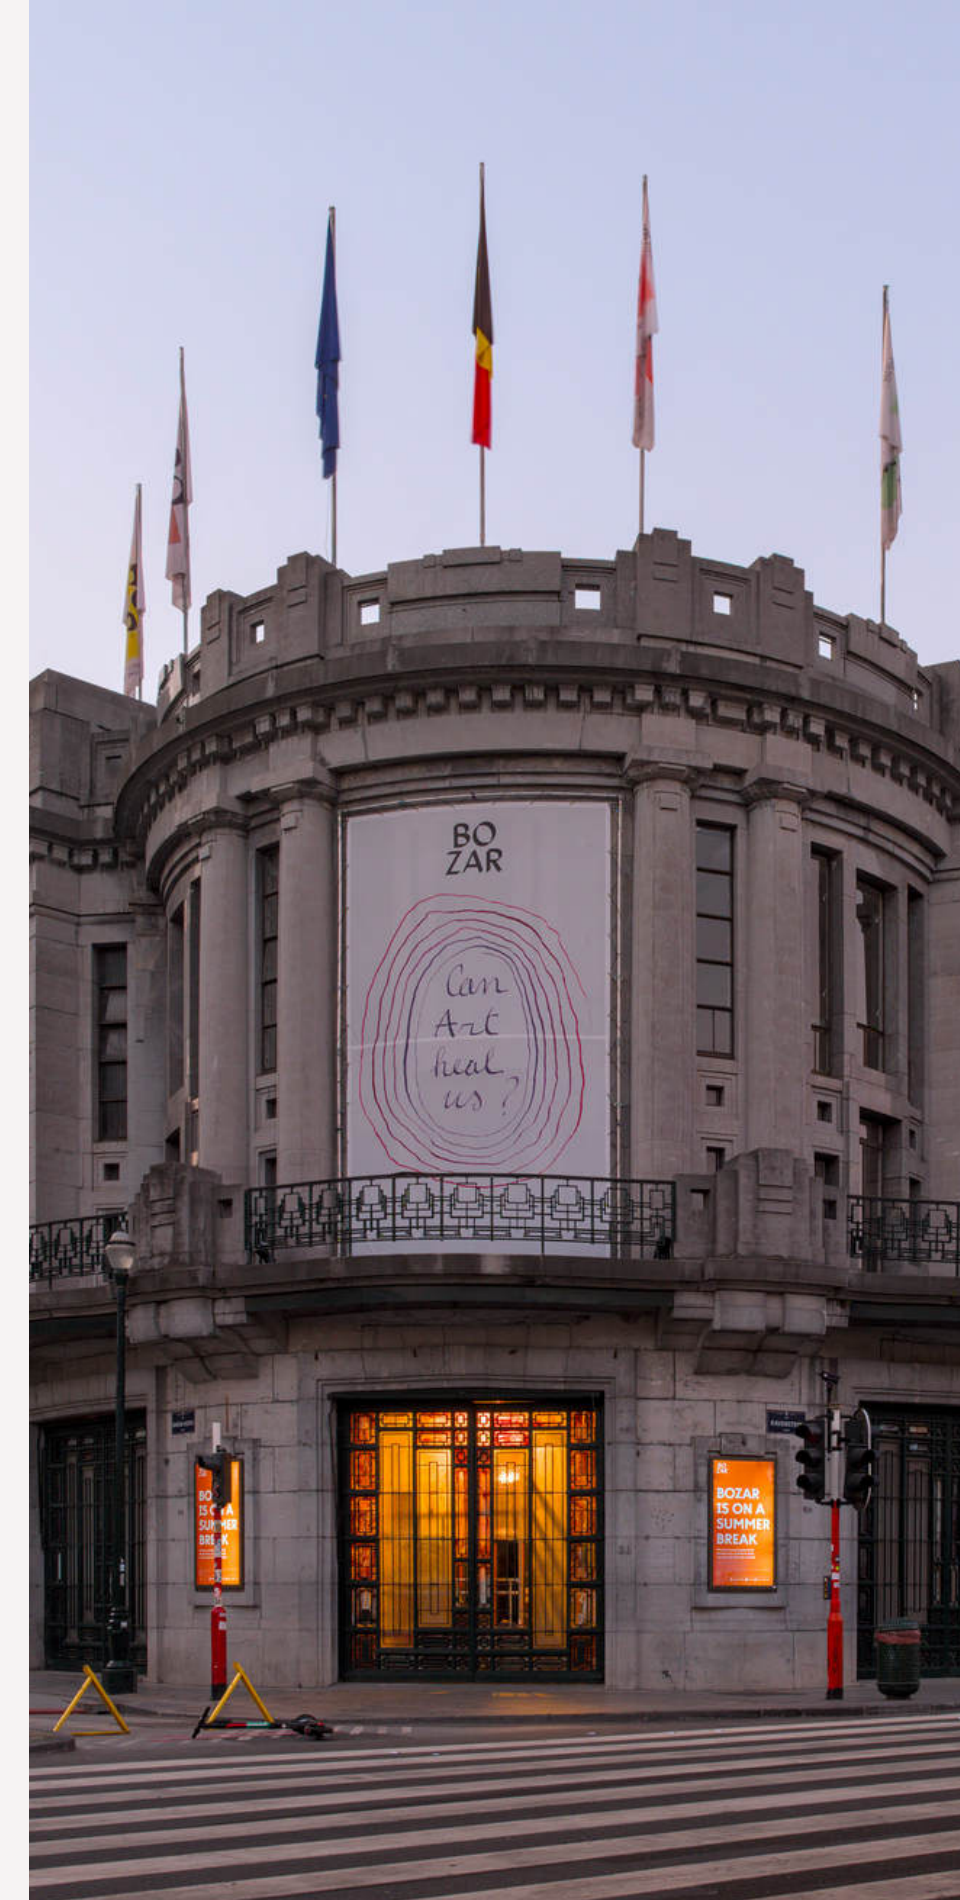

This year's 2023 ECPF will be held over a 2-day period, gathering hundreds of panelists and professionals for talks, debates, and networking sessions

Once again this year, ECPF will welcome some of the industry's top decision-makers for a series of discussions, panels, and networking sessions with the hopes of facilitating a new wave of international co-productions.

What's on the agenda?

- As every year, we will have a country Focus : SWEDEN and the Nordics, which will include a geopolitical and cultural presentation of the Swedish co-production culture in cinema, TV and new media, dedicated panels and a masterclass with a Swedish/Nordic showrunner.
- The second focus will be on the European up-and-coming producers with specific panels and networking sessions with streamers, Europa Distribution, Europa International, the European co-production and financing, a special training program with Netflix Europe, etc.

In addition to that, this year's event will tackle all topics related to the industry, from the streaming platforms' take-over and NFT funding to reviving the movie theater industry, identifying national and regional incentives and the future of unscripted formats and many others. ECPF welcomes all industry figures, including producers, financiers, broadcasters, streaming platforms, and more...
